Syllabus for PHIL 316, Winter 2022, Term 1

Hegel and Kierkegaard on the State vs the Individual

Instructor: Dr Anders Kraal

1. Course Description

The relation between Hegel and Kierkegaard has attracted enormous attention in recent scholarship. At the center of the issue stands the complicated relation between “the state” and “the individual,” and more broadly the relation between “society” and the “individual,” where Kierkegaard is taken to stand on the side of individual freedom and Hegel on the side of the state and society. But on closer inspection each thinker has a far more intricate position than first meets the idea. In this course we study the Hegel-Kierkegaard relation by first pursuing a close reading of Hegel’s Philosophy of Right (which is far more readable and intelligible than Hegel’s reputation would have it) and then do the same with Kierkegaard’s Either/Or and Fear and Trembling, focusing on points of similarity and contrast between the two writers.

(Note: students who have read Kierkegaard’s texts in connection with Phil385 will be reading it from quite a different perspective in this course.)

For dates, see the Schedule.

In the in-class exams you will be asked to provide answers to questions dealing with matters brought up in class prior to the date of the exam. If you miss the in-class exam you will automatically be assigned 0 points unless you provide the TA with an UBC Academic Calendar approved rationale for doing a make-up exam (this is to be provided within 1 week of the day of the exam).

In the take-home paper, you will be asked to write a 3-4 page text in response to one or more questions about material covered in class. The prompt for this paper will be posted on Canvas 1 week before the due date, and is to be submitted on Canvas. A missed assignment will automatically receive 0 points. Late assignments will not be accepted, unless you provide the TA with a UBC Academic Calendar approved rationale for an extended deadline (this is to be provided within 1 week of the day of the fixed deadline).

The final exam will be held during UBC's final examinations period. A missed final exam will be assigned a grade point of 0 unless an explanation is provided that is acceptable by the standards of the UBC Academic Calendar (in which case there will be opportunity for a make-up exam).

9. Lecture Recordings

If the class is online, lectures will be recorded and uploaded for easy student access.

10. Learning Outcomes

At the end of the course the student will be expected to be familiar with some main ideas in Hegel’s Philosophy of Right and Kierkegaard’s Either/Or and Fear and Trembling as relates to the topic of “the relation between the state and the individual,” and be able to provide critical reflection on the aforementioned ideas.

11. Marking Parameters
Your mark in this course will be a function of three main factors: 1) your performance on the examinable momenta relative to your peers, 2) your comprehension of the course material, 3) demonstration of skill in assessing and evaluating philosophical ideas.

12. Marking Scale

The degree of difficulty on the examinable momenta will be set so as to aim at a class average outcome that by and large conforms to the department average for this course down the years, which is in the range 68%-75%, i.e., in the B/B- range. Upwards scaling may be used to this effect.

13. Policy on Review of Marked Work

Marks on exams and papers will be posted on canvas. Feedback on expected outcomes of exams and papers will be provided (typically by the Instructor) in so-called Feedback Sessions. Any concerns about the marking of a paper or exam should be submitted to the marker (typically the TA) via email, and will be responded to (typically by the TA) via email.

14. Plagiarism (from the UBC Academic Calendar)

Plagiarism, which is intellectual theft, occurs where an individual submits or presents the oral or written work of another person as his or her own. Scholarship quite properly rests upon examining and referring to the thoughts and writings of others. However, when another person’s words (i.e. phrases, sentences, or paragraphs), ideas, or entire works are used, the author must be acknowledged in the text, in footnotes, in endnotes, or in another accepted form of academic citation. Where direct quotations are made, they must be clearly delineated (for example, within quotation marks or separately indented).
Failure to provide proper attribution is plagiarism because it represents someone else’s work as one’s own. Plagiarism should not occur in submitted drafts or final works. A student who seeks assistance from a tutor or other scholastic aids must ensure that the work submitted is the student’s own. Students are responsible for ensuring that any work submitted does not constitute plagiarism. Students who are in any doubt as to what constitutes plagiarism should consult their instructor before handing in any assignments. See also http://www.calendar.ubc.ca/Vancouver/index.cfm?tree=3,54,111,959

16. UBC Values and Policies (from the UBC Academic Calendar)

UBC provides resources to support student learning and to maintain healthy lifestyles but recognizes that sometimes crises arise and so there are additional resources to access including those for survivors of sexual violence. UBC values respect for the person and ideas of all members of the academic community. Harassment and discrimination are not tolerated nor is suppression of academic freedom.
UBC provides appropriate accommodation for students with disabilities and for religious and cultural observances. UBC values academic honesty and students are expected to acknowledge the ideas generated by others and to uphold the highest academic standards in all of their actions. Details of the policies and how to access support are available here (https://senate.ubc.ca/policiesresources-support-student-success).
