We will be using Piazza discussion about course logistics. Piazza is an alternative to emailing questions to the instructor, the TA, or your classmates with the added advantage that everyone can follow the discussion. Find our class signup link here. Description

PHIL 375 "Philosophy and Literature" addresses philosophical issues in works of literature or arising from theories of literary interpretation. Topics include issues relating to relativism, the nature of morality, free will, personal identity, the nature of the emotions. This course in particular will be about the question what the interpretation of texts and the methods associated with interpretation (hermeneutics) can teach us about more general philosophical questions such as metaphysics, scientific method, moral responsibility, and personal identity.

Learning Objectives

Students who successfully complete the course will be able to:

1. Outline a complex argument in an assigned text, stating premises and conclusion.
2. Assess the strength of arguments in assigned texts.
3. Complete an essay that discusses and evaluates arguments with a clear structure and well-supported arguments.
4. Discuss and defend one's own view around problems of hermeneutics and hermeneutic philosophy.

Course Website

We have a site on the UBC course website system called "Canvas." We will use the Canvas site for several purposes, but grades will be in an instructor spreadsheet, not on the UBC Canvas site. I will provide access to the instructor spreadsheet using a special set of login credentials. To access the Canvas site, go to this site and log in with your Campus Wide Login and password: <http://canvas.ubc.ca>

Evaluation/Assignments

25% Reading Assessment Quizzes

There is a fair bit of reading to do for this course. There will be reading assessments on Canvas during class time to ensure that students read these texts carefully.

24% Freestyle Essay

The first essay assignment (Essay 1) is an assignment that you submit in hardcopy before Thursday, January 18, 2024, at 5:00pm (under normal circumstances, you will just bring the hardcopy to class). It is freestyle, which means that you have a fair amount of artistic licence. One conventional choice for students is to write personal literary non-fiction. There is no limit on what you can do EXCEPT write an academic or argumentative paper. You do not need (and in fact are discouraged) to refer to philosophy or the material that we have covered in class.

The idea is to write a literary nonfiction text based on the idea that your life and the narrative associated with it provides a "text" for interpretation. Some questions to pursue are whether there are overall meanings or intentions in your life; what the role of contingency and randomness is; whether there is some kind of narrative with a beginning, an ending, and a middle that holds your life together; and what the continuity of personal identity is throughout the history or story of your life. Note that I do not want you to answer these questions in a detached and academic manner (you will do some of this in Essay 2), and you definitely don't have to cover all of them (you may not even want to cover any of them explicitly). I want Essay 1 to be personal and nonacademic, perhaps like a journal entry or a letter written to a close friend. You are also encouraged to drill down immediately into something that is pointedly particular about you—do not waste time with generalities. The more detailed and specific this paper is about you, the better, and you get to choose YOUR preferred way of expressing yourself about what matters to you.

Don't worry about your grade or a grading rubric for Essay 1. If you put recognizable effort into this project, you will receive 85% or more. You do not need to address the questions suggested in the previous paragraph, they are only meant to help you think about this project. You will submit the paper anonymously with no name on the paper, only the second-placed, fourth-placed, sixth-placed, and eighth-placed digits of your student number (for example, if your student number is 40867512, then put 0652 on your Essay 1 with no other identifying information). The essay must be exactly two letter-sized pages (no title page!), but the formatting can be anything you like. Print the two pages on one sheet (back and front). Each student therefore submits exactly one sheet with only a four-digit identifying code on it.

27% Term Tests

There are three term tests (Term Test A, Term Test B, and Term Test C) scheduled on January 30, February 27, and March 21. They are mini final exams consisting of short answer questions, multiple choice questions, and an essay question about the readings covered so far.

24% Final Exam

The final exam will be held during the exam period for Term 2, which is April 16–27, 2024. Date and location are set by UBC. The exam will consist of two parts: an essay question and a multiple choice / short answer section. To prepare for it, attend the lectures, do all the readings required for the class, and take some notes that you can review before the final exam. No extensive studying before the exam should be necessary. If you have attended class, read the material, and reminded yourself of the main ideas of the readings and their authors, you should comfortably pass this requirement.

Course Policies

Class Etiquette and Rules

I don't encourage the use of computers during class time, although you may do so if you are taking notes. Use the computer as you would on an airplane, i.e. offline. Often it's best to raise your hand if you want to speak, but I'm also happy to have free-form discussions in class where people don't raise their hands as long as everyone is respectful of others (avoid cutting others off, interrupting them when they're in the middle of saying something).

Basic rules of respectful dialogue will be enforced. Disrespectful speech such as name-calling, stereotyping, and derogatory remarks about ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation and sexual/gender identity should be avoided and may constitute harassing speech.

General information on assignments: Students should retain a copy of all submitted assignments and should also retain all their marked assignments in case they wish to apply for a Review of Assigned Standing. A final examination becomes the property of the University and must remain in the possession of the University for one year from the date of the examination, after which it should be destroyed or otherwise disposed of in accordance with UBC policy.

A word about the use of generative AI (for example ChatGPT). You are allowed to use it as you are allowed to use a dictionary. If the AI helps you with research, grammar, and spelling, that's perfectly fine. If the AI produces content for you, you should indicate this by citation. Be warned that an AI is surprisingly good at producing undergraduate papers, but it is unlikely that it would receive an above-average grade even if it were skillfully edited. Essay 2, for example, requires the vigorous defence of a claim, not mere summary or exposition. Dependence on content creation by generative AI will therefore most likely lead to a grade deduction, not to mention the violation of academic integrity. If you are not a native English speaker or more generally do not feel comfortable with your ability to express yourself, the TA and I still want to hear your voice, not the voice of a computer. We predominantly grade on the basis of your argument's substance and usually try to look past issues you may have with spelling and grammar.

Policies on Late or Missed Assessments

All essays are due on the day noted on this syllabus and on the assignment instructions. Late essays are subject to a 5% per 24 hours reduction in points. The first late day carries an extra penalty of 5%. This means that if you submit ten minutes late, the penalty is already 10% (5% for lateness, 5% for the first 24 hours). Arts Students must contact Arts Advising as soon as you are aware you may need an in-term concession. Please review their website for concession criteria as well as process to follow. Students in other faculties should contact their faculty advising office for direction. As instructors are no longer able to assess documentation other than the Student Self-Declaration Form, I will not be handling any in-term or final exam concessions. Go here instead.

Grading Standards

The following provide general guidelines that apply to all courses in the Faculty of Arts, including this one.

The following guidelines offer a broad-brush characterization of the type of work that might be associated with various ranges of grades. The intent here is to encourage general consistency across the Faculty of Arts rather than to provide precise specifications.

- 80% to 100% (A- to A+) Exceptional performance: strong evidence of original thinking; good organization; capacity to analyze and synthesize; superior grasp of subject matter with sound critical evaluations; evidence of extensive knowledge base.
- 68% to 79% (B- to B+) Competent performance: evidence of grasp of subject matter; some evidence of critical capacity and analytic ability; reasonable understanding of relevant issues; evidence of familiarity with the literature.
- 50% to 67% (D to C+) Adequate performance: understanding of the subject matter; ability to develop solutions to simple problems in the material; acceptable but uninspired work, not seriously faulty but lacking style and vigour.
- 0% to 49% (F) Inadequate performance: little or no evidence of understanding of the subject matter; weakness in critical and analytic skills; limited or irrelevant use of the literature.

Marks in this course may be scaled (see Calendar, under Grading Practices).

University Policies

UBC provides resources to support student learning and to maintain healthy lifestyles but recognizes that sometimes crises arise and so there are additional resources to access including those for survivors of sexual violence. UBC values respect for the person and ideas of all members of the academic community. Harassment and discrimination are not tolerated nor is suppression of academic freedom. UBC provides appropriate accommodation for students with disabilities and for religious observances. UBC values academic honesty and students are expected to acknowledge the ideas generated by others and to uphold the highest academic standards in all of their actions. Details of the policies and how to access support are available on the UBC Senate website.
