

This is just a quick infomercial about my upcoming Fall seminar,
Twentieth-Century Philosophy: The Fiction and Non-Fiction of Iris Murdoch (PHIL 518)

I wanted to let everyone know that I'm working on a draft syllabus, and I welcome student input. Here's the rough first pass syllabus as it currently stands, but this is totally adjustable:

<https://ln5.sync.com/4.0/dl/f1ecab8e0#vfgexc46-qdvm83sk-6tkg2zvz-36648yqm>

Is there a particular Murdoch book or essay you'd like to read? Any secondary literature ? Want us to read less than this overall? More? Let me know!

I'm looking forward to working with lots of you soon (I'm super excited about this course) and hope everyone has a wonderful rest of summer in the meantime.